Fundry is shutting down

I'm sorry to announce that we will shortly be shutting down Fundry.com.

We appreciate the effort all our developers and funders have put in over the last 18 months, but unfortunately the service is currently not financially sustainable, and we can no longer commit to supporting it.

Following are the steps we will take to wind the service down in a quick, fair and efficient way.

- 1 - With immediate effect we will no longer be accepting new projects or pledges.
- 2 - All funders now have 2 weeks to retract their pledges. We will reimburse PayPal fees for both your pledge and your retracted pledge. All pledges that have not been retracted by 2nd March at 23:59 EST will be converted to donations for the pledged developer.
- 3 - All developers will then have 2 weeks to withdraw funds. We will reimburse PayPal fees for all withdrawn funds. All pledges that have not been retracted by 16th March at 23:59 EST will be converted to donations to Fundry.

Once again, we're sorry that we can't continue Fundry. Thanks again for your support.

In terms of alternatives, obviously Kickstarter is the highest profile crowdfunding service. Feel free to suggest alternatives in the comments on our blog post.
